Top Tip from the Study Skills Team! Audiobooks for Free

Over the Easter holidays we strongly recommend that our children should listen to at least one audiobook. Listening to books is an easy way for children who find reading hard work to access age-appropriate texts, allowing them to enjoy the experience of becoming immersed in a really good story. Audiobooks extend children's vocabulary, increase their world knowledge and can have a very positive impact on their achievement in school.

Most books are only 4 hours long, so it's easily possible to listen to 20 mins each evening and get through more than one book over the holiday. Or you could listen on car journeys, planes etc. And it's not just for children – everyone's enjoying audiobooks these days! There are literally thousands of titles available. In addition to commercial suppliers, such as Audible.com (where a trial will allow you one free audiobook), did you know that you can also access audiobooks without charge at your local library?

Audiobooks at the Library

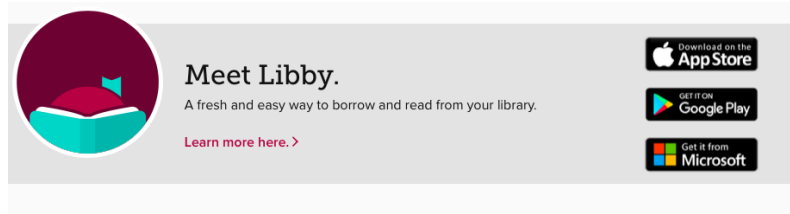

Once you have a library card and pin number, you can download eBooks and eAudio titles to your computer, phone or tablet for free! There are no late fines and you can borrow up to ten titles from both OverDrive and BorrowBox, and ten audiobooks from RBdigital for up to three weeks.
